

Notification of Medical or Genetic Concerns By Embryo Donation Recipients Assisted Reproductive Technologies

Embryo Donation International (EDI) is a subsidiary of Specialists in Reproductive Medicine and Surgery, P.A. (SRMS) and will be referenced throughout this document.

Introduction:

As a courtesy to the wonderful patients who donated their embryos, we ask that you notify SRMS-EDI of any significant medical or inheritable diseases that are found in your donated embryo offspring. The information you provide here may be of use to the Donating Parents, their relatives and other families who may also have received donated embryos from this same couple.

We have also asked the Embryo Donor Parents to notify us if any of their relatives and their children are found to have a new significant medical or genetic disease that could influence the future medical care of your donated embryo offspring.

Identifying Information:

Since you may have moved, please update your identifying information below:
